TINTIN AND THE MYSTERIOUS VISITOR

The next morning . . .
I'm sorry I wasn't outside yesterday, gentlemen, I was working on my new invention . . . Did I miss anything?
We had a mysterious telephone call, Cuthbert . . . Nothing to worry about, though . . .
A ball ! . . . Really ! . . . You had a ball, and you didn't invite me? . . . And you tell me not to worry about it ! Captain, I demand an explanation ! . . .
THUNDERING TYPHOONS!
Don't think you can get out of it that easily, Captain . . . I demand an apology . . . I'm not happy . . .
NOT HAPPY AT ALL!
I will not be treated like this !
A few minutes later . . .
I don't know why he doesn't realize he's deaf ! . . . I swear I won't be able to cope with it much longer . . .
He is our friend !
Anyway . . . At least it's taken your mind off yesterday's events . . .
You're right, Tintin ! . . . Things aren't that bad, are they? I just hope Cuthbert isn't still angry with me ! . . .

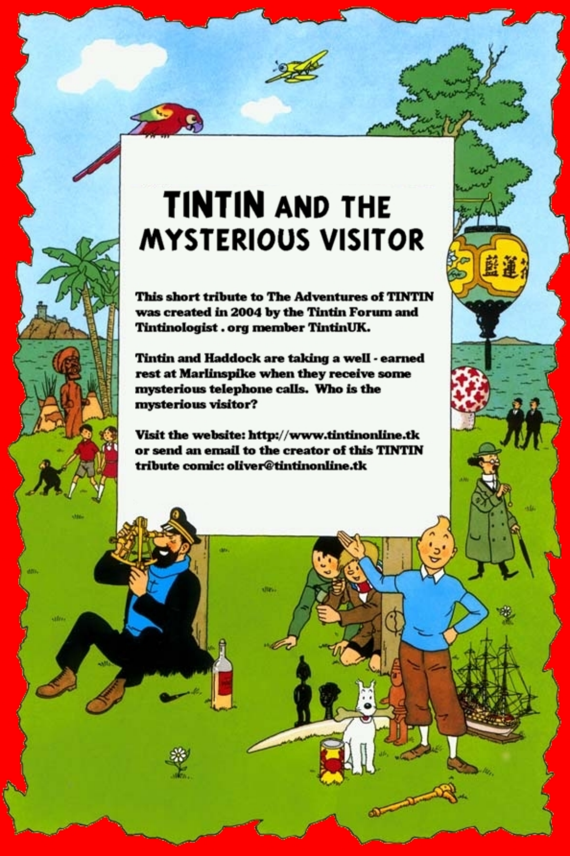

RRRING RRING
Hello . . . What? . . . Not again ! . . .
I hope it's not another prank . . .
SLAM
The master will be most upset . . .
Another mysterious telephone call, sir ! . . . Warning of danger! . . . It is most annoying, sir . . .
Thundering typhoons !
I don't know whether to believe these messages or not ! . . .
There's nothing else we can do, Captain . . .
We must go to the police ! . . . It's very serious. We'll tell them what's happened . . .
KNOCK KNOCK KNOCK
Shall I get it, Tintin?
Be careful, Captain . . . It might be the mysterious caller ! . . .
I'll be careful ! . . .

Hello old chap ! . . . I let myself in . . . I said to myself, "Jolyon", I said, "You must visit the Captain since you've spent so much time telephoning him with practical joke telephone calls ! . . . And my, was it funny! . . . Captain, you're absolutely hilarious when you're angry!
YOU?
It's like my Uncle Anatole used to say, "No joke is worth playing if you haven't got anyone to try it on!" . . . Anyway, about your insurance policy . . .
BLISTERING BARNACLES!
